editorial design is how you get potential readers

editorial design is a branch of graphic design specialized in publications, such as books, magazines, articles, newspapers, catalogues, leaflets, brochures, covers, and so on. we can say that editorial design is responsible for the architecture of publications, or that it's the framework through which a given story is read and interpreted, and that it consists of overall distribution of the publication and the specific handling of the story. this is one of the most effective disciplines of graphic design when presenting specific content to a specific audience. the use of images (photos and illustrations) and the high density of written content come together to produce an ideal format to develop any type of subject matter in depth and to deal extensively with everything related to information architecture.

JAPANESE PAGODA

Chureito Pagoda is part of the Arakura Sengen Shrine, built in the 8th century, found in the city of Fujinokita. The panoramic views define it as iconic, as if it is indeed breathtaking at any time of the day or year; at night though the site gets inundated with a sea of dazzling urban lights.

The pagoda has been one of the most recognizable forms of Japanese architecture throughout history. These unique temples have stood the test of time and are often used as tourist attractions today. A Japanese pagoda is a square tower that is usually part of a monastery used by Buddhist monks. It served as a temple and housed sacred relics. Each of its levels ascending, is slightly smaller than the last, resulting in a pyramid-like structure that is topped by a spire.

DELTA® SCREEN

Delta® Rotary Screens from Gurjar® are the result of constant research and development, giving a first class technological product. Delta® screens with their Higher Thickness and Higher Open Area find universal applications for printing both, large surface areas as well as outlines and details.

Screen (mm)	1410	1460	1760	1980	2080	2280	2530	2840	3030	3500

Delta® Screens are meant for textile printing, better colour fine distribution, consistent colour deposition, more exact reproduction of fine details and the possibility of printing fine outlines and straight lines without any saw tooth effect. Delta® screens reflect to better printing economics due to lower dye paste consumption, higher printing speeds and lesser screen wear with highly concave printing pastes.

Delta® 110 - The Power to print Universal Rotary Prints

Gurjar® introduced Delta® Rotary Screens in the year 1990. Since then they have started receiving growing success among various types of Delta® Screens, the rotary printers have greatly appreciated the Delta 110 mesh screens and named them Universal Screens due to the possibility of printing large blocks to very fine details with just one screen.

According to them, Delta 110 mesh screens are an ideal replacement to conventional 125 mesh screens having the following advantages:

- Easily stripable after polymerization and printing - Not so in the case of 125 mesh.
- Printing and retouching made easy due to large open area and hole diameter - Not so in the case of 125 mesh.

And other distinct possibilities & applications make these screens Universal & Highly Economical Screens.

The Delta® 110 Mesh offers these universal applications:

- Large Block Printing: Even color distribution and brilliancy of shades without Matte effect.
- Fine and Straight Lines: With higher mesh and higher open area, minimizing the saw tooth effect.
- Half Tone Printing: Clear reproduction of finest details due to high resolution of screen.
- Discharge Printing: Greater Dye permeability giving better and deeper discharge effect, thanks to higher open area.

Delta® 125 HTS & 155 HTS

Convenient Screens especially suited for half-tone printing. These screens with adequately less O.A. than conventional screens used for this purpose facilitate better, sharper half-tone print effects using suitable magnetic contact screens or raster.

The idea is to equip the students apply from the programme's delivery focused and aligned with the expectations of the 'real world'. In the second year, in addition to some core courses, students round off their degree with many electives to choose from.

The academic year is typically divided into three trimester; thus the 2-year programme is delivered in six trimesters and summer internship.

Curriculum

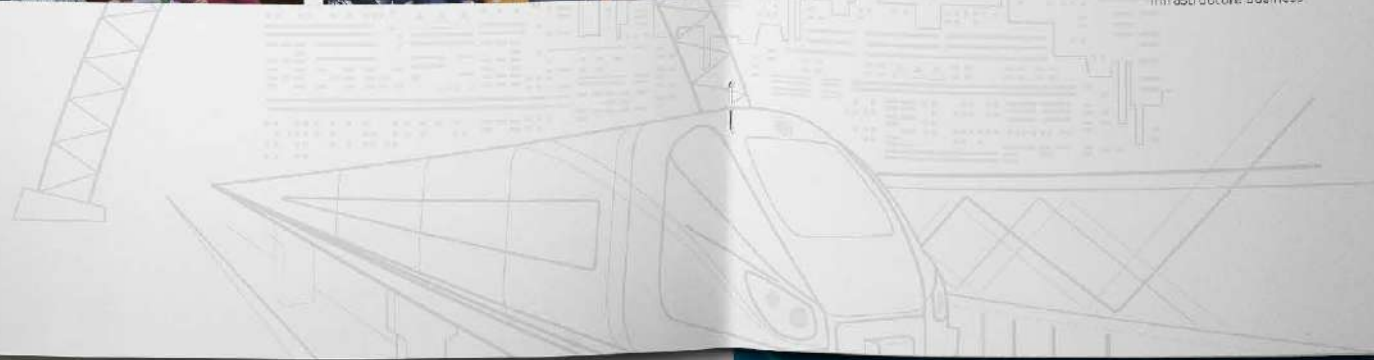

Our curriculum is designed to be the MBA+, meaning that the students would study all master level management courses and also apply them to the infrastructure sector. Those who are able to understand one industry sector well in the perspective of all business courses are well-equipped to understand other industries quickly.

Our curriculum is designed systematically and it is goal oriented. Setting goals of the programme, identifying and understanding factors for the success of our graduates, classifying those factors into knowledge, skills and attitude (KSA), identification of common threads across the courses, pre-planning the active learning components, ratification of initial draft of curriculum and courses by academic and Industry experts, input from alumni and many such steps in the rigorous process of curriculum design has given us a degree of confidence about what we have planned to deliver.

Courses are delivered by blend of academic experts and industry experts, with intermittent guest lectures by eminent experts, theme based conclaves and seminars, conferences and more.

The courses delivery would immerse the students in the learning process through a mix of pedagogical methods including case analysis, lectures, group exercises, simulation games, presentations, role plays, project, work and site visits to enhance the effectiveness and richness of learning and in-class experience. Special emphasis is laid to ensure that the pedagogy is interactive and learner-centric.

We at AIMA have been keenly aware to dynamically align the curriculum to the needs and aspirations of the infrastructure industry so that our students, with strong academic concepts, analytical and decision-making skills, acquire the tool set and mind-set required to be the leaders in the dynamic world of infrastructure business.
